Dear Ms. Proctor,

Last fall, during a routine Angio Screen on my carotid artery [at J&J Industries], you asked permission to view my thyroid gland since you were "in the area." (You may have already "peeked" and knew you needed to tell me something.)

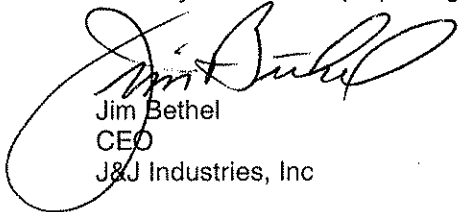

Thank-you for taking the extra-step that was not required. You won't remember, but nodules were observed and you encouraged me to follow-up with my local physician.

I did follow-up and, after several additional tests, the "dreaded diagnosis" was returned...but the bad news was not all that bad because of early detection.

Just know that when you take those "non-required" extra steps, you are being an angel to us unsuspecting patients.

I hope your Christmas will be as blessed as you have made mine.

Thank-you...and keep up the good work!
